Not a case of true free-market advocates

From Mr Adrian Day.

Sir, Is Chrystia Freeland ("From Wall St to Main St", January 19/20) joking? Neither this administration nor the last Republican Congress nor (with one exception) the Republican presidential candidates can be called advocates of the "laissez-faire gospel".

Or does Ms Freeland think the $140bn stimulus package proposed by President George W. Bush would gain the support of free-market proponents?
